CANADA.

A nation's greatness consists chiefly in its geographical position, its natural resources, and the intellectual, moral and religious education of its people. The nation about which we are to draw conclusions lies truly in a temperate zone,—temperate in its geographical position, temperate in its religious sentiment,—for all of which we should feel grateful; grateful that we are spared the severities of an Artic region where the greatest exertions are requisite to satisfy the crawings of appetite, and keep warmth to the body; even more grateful that our lot is not east in a tropi al climate, where little or no exertion is necessary to supply the individual's demands, leaving him weak physicially and morally, passionate, and given to vices. May it never be said of Canada as Goldsmith said of Italy, "Man seems the only growth that windles here."

I said that we are temperate in our political institutions. We think our dwindles here."

I said that we are temperate in our political institutions. We think our constitution second to none on the globe, being the happy mean between the two extremes—despotism and republicanism. Having license, and having a reverence for a Royality we are governed by a democracy. Thanks to our true liberty and just laws we are not afflicted with the nihilists of Russia the socialists of Prussia, Belgium and Switzerland, the communists of France, or with the anarchists of the United States.

or with the anarchists of the Chica-States.

And a Canadian does not feel proud of our statesmen? I care not whether you refer to a Mowat or a Meredith, the practical Mackenzie, the theoretical Blake or the wily Sir John. Such men have done much tomake our young country a land of peace and plenty. The carpet bag politician is unknown in Canada, and the demogogue is almost rare.

in Canada, and thedemogogue samost as rare.

We have reached the acme of religious freedom; and instead of warring sect against sect, we war against sin.

Canada, stretching from the Atlantic to the Pacific, whose provinces are bound together by the silken chain of commerce, opened up by that greatest of all overland routes, the C. P. R., is rapidly rising into national prominence as a producer of the world's necessaries.

The coal fields of Nova Scotia in the east and British Columbia in the west are sufficient to supply the nation for are sufficient to supply the nation for ages.

The weavers of Manchester and Glasgow, the cutlers of Sheffield, the miners of Gornwall, the Cockneys of London at bread made from wheat grown on the well-tilled farms of Ontario and the vast pretire lattic of Manitoba and the North West Territories.

Our American cousins inbibe beer brewed from Canadian barley, Timber from New Brunswick is found in the dockyards of Glasgow and Woolwich. Great Britain, owning nearly half the shipping of the world, whose sons loyally sing, "Brittannia Rules"

CARTWRIGHT TO HIS FOLLOW-ERS. the Waves," obtains the oaken ribs of her great fleet from Canadian for-sts.

In short, our fisheries, forests, agri-ultural and mineral resources, the de-In snort, our niseries, process, agricultural and mineral resources, the development of which is yet in its infancy, excel those of any other nation, either of the old or the new world. With regard to shipping and ton-nage, young Canada stands fifth in the list of nations, having more vessels than old France, Spain, Italy or Russia.

than old France, Spain, Italy or Russia.

Nature in her kindness has furnished us with the finest water system on the globe.

I can appreciate the pride with which our neighbors to the south point to the great "Father of Waters," which is the outlet for all the produce from the Rocky Mountains to the Alleghanies, and from our great lakes of the Gulf of Mexico, but I pride more in our picturesque St Lawrence, whose waters sweet past the pictured rocks of Lake Superior, leap the cataract at Niagra, and carry the kneels of Canadian commerce.

Yes, I pride more in our noble St. Lawrence, whose shores have never echoed to the stroke of the slave-driver's lash.

With these patrus delangements

Yes, I pride more in our noble St. Lawrence, whose shove never cehoed to the stroke of the slave-driver's lash.

With these natural advantages surely Canada has a hopeful future. Were she to make progress during the next century equal to that of the past, she will stand among the foremost nations of the earth. England, from whose loins Canada has sprung, has grown in wealth and opulence for more than a thousand years, and yet is far from her dotage; then why should not her offspring, with even greater advantages reach national greatness?

The natural position and condition of Canada are not its only encouraging features; her school system, founded by that genal old. U. E. Loyalist, Rev. Dr. Egerton Ryerson, has made such rapid strides of progress that it is being largely copied by the old European anations.

With reference to our queen province of Ontario is this especially true. Even the great German system, the pitle of Europe, must take second place as regards our system of inspection, of training and of institute work for teachers.

The peasant in his hamlet on the shores of Georgian Bay or Lake-Superior has a trainest teacher for his children. Herein, ladies and gentlemen, lies the promise of much of our future greatness—an educated peasantry.

"Trinces and lost my fluids country's ride, shore and place and produce in a but a bold peasantry, their country's ride,

Abreathean make them, as a breath has made in the bold peasantry, their country's prided.

When once destroyed, can never be supplied.

Canadians are truly a moral, a religious and a loyal people—loyal to Canada, loyal to the empire to which we are proud to belong, loyal to political and religious liberty.

Its population is composed of the sturdy sons of England, the hardy highlanders of Scotland, the witty, but generous-hearted sons of Erin, the industrious German, and the Anglicised Frenchman, and the sons of the 30,000 United Empire Leyalists, who sacrificel homes and property for the love of freedom and the British flag. What better elements could be desired to make a great nation than the descendants of England's Hampden, Scotland's Knox, Ireland's O'Connell and Germany's Luther!

The union of all these different nationalities by social, religious, political and commercial intercourse, as call as by intermarriage, has blended all the better qualities, and eliminated the weaknesses of each, thus in a measure verifying the doctrine of the "survival of the fittest."

Long may the rose, thistle and shampek keep company with the maple leaf.

of the fittest."
Long may the rose, thistle and shamrock keep company with the maple leaf.
The great question that is agitating the minds of many to-day is, "What is to be Canada's Future!"
Considered from a political standpoint it is generally believed that Canada will accept one of three options, viz.: Annexation with the United States, Independence or Imperial Federation.

States, Independent cration.

The first is scarcely worth our time to discuss, as Annexation would be accepted only by the few who are not Canadians in any true sense of the Having rejected Annexation and In Having is dependence, we are inclined dependence, we are inclined in partial Federation, and believe that within a few years we shall be a part of a great federation as one, and not the least of England's numerous colonies with our representatives meeting with our representatives meeting.

Canada, having such elements of greatness within herself, when she becomes a part of such a union, that has for its object the better protection of one another's interests, will be a large factor in a national greatness that has not been eclipsed since the "morning stars sang together."

"In union is strength," as is shown by the Confederation of the Britist North American provinces. Had this union not been effected, at the wis suggestion of the late Hon. Georg Brown, and so well carried into effect by the Canadian "Chieftain," per haps the Martine Provinces would not yet have been connected with the upper provinces by the Intercolonia Railway, and quite certain it is the C. P. R. goold yet be unknown, and

United States territory.

That Divine Being who "docks the liby" and is mindful of the spacrow, surely is not forgetful of nations. History points to the fact that no nation. eases to prosper whose legislation is based upon the moral law, which was made as surely for nations as for individuals.

An aged man once said, "I have been young but now am old, yet have I not seen the righteous foresiken, or his seed begging bread." This is as true to day as the day it was penned, and as true of nations as of individuals.

Outposed as we are to annexation we and nand, to battle for right, det virtue, and war against intemper and all its kindred vices, that are di so much to retard the progress of neighboring Republic and our best Canada.

Canada.

But, ladies and gentiemen, before concluding, permit me to refer to our ancestral race. I must say something of our forefathers who shed their blood in defence to political and religious liberty.

When Section 1

Let us beware of the sin of Judas. The hand of history points to the fact that swollen fortunes and material wealth are not always signs of nation's strength. In the connection between old, Abraham and Lot, we find the latter choosing Jordan's rich and factile valley, while the former was contented with the so-newhat barren hills of Palestine, but that pillar of salt on Palestine's plains at and as an evidence that material wealth sometimes leads but to weakness.

Canadians in any true sense of the term.

No intelligent citizen of Canada, considering the sacrifices we should make, morally, religiously, politically, and in many respects commercially, be sides severing the cords of affection for the mother country would seriously consider the question.

We must also negative the second option, as we are yet too, young to go alone, with such an overshadowing, and somewhat covetous nation in so close proximity. We are rapidly growing into maturity, still for some years to come we need the anxious, material parent's care.

Meanness.

Old Rome was never so strong as when in her colossal wealth she had searcely a freeman. "He is a freeman whom the truth makes free, and all are free! Let us imbibe the sentiment of England's immortal band who says, "I dare do all that becomes a man, who dares do more is none."

Happy is the man who loves his country and his home; thrice happy he who from his very heart exclains, and parent's care.

Farmer's Institute.

At an adjourned meeting of the Farmer's Institute held in the Brunswick Hall on Saturday last the Committee appointed at a previous meeting to ascertain the feeling of the farmers as to forming a Joint Stock Milling Co., were present and nearly all reported that the farmers were not in favor of forming a Company, but on the contrary were in favor of granting a small bonus to some energetic man to build and operate a small mill for local purposes. Capt. Smith quoted some figures that he had received from eastern companies and through out some valuable hints regarding the quality and quantity of machinery which would be required to run a mill of about 20 to 25 barrel capacity. The following motion was unanimously carried:—"Moved by T. E. McWilliams, seconded by Capt. Smith, that we ask for tenders for the building (and furnishing with Machinery) of a mill of a small capacity, say 35 barrel, which would do for present requirements, also tenders to state what bonus would be required from farmers." Meeting adjourned to meet again on Friday July 17th. in the Brunswick Hall.

THE MACDONALD MONU-

In unison with all loyal men and true, throughout the Dominion, I rejoice in the unanimity existing among the members of both political parties with reference to the movement for a national monument in honor of our late Premier. This is a question of justice to the great names of our country which we would not willingly allow to dis. If we are to judge of men and their work in the light of party interests, we shall ultimately become bereft of our great uen, history will be a mere record of partizouship, and the lines of Canada's illustrious man will become tarnished, unworthy the study of our children, and the initation of posterity. Such however is not the case. The great men of both parties belong to the Dominion and we honor them for their work. The time is opportune for every patriot to unite in erecting a national monument to the memory of Sir John A. Macdonald. Moose Jaw will not be less loyal than any town or city in the Dominion and most assuredly it will give as much in proportion to the ability of its citizens as any other town although the monument may be placed in the Capital of the Dominion. Let us have one grand national monument which we can admire and will be worthy of our gratitude and patriotism.

John McLean

Moose Jaw, June 30th, 1891.

AUSTRIA AFRAID OF RUSSIA

An increase in the Military Expenses of Austria. This increase is made necessary by the formidable at titude of Russia near the Austria proposes practically to put Galicia in a state of military occupation with a force sufficient to confront unexpected attack. Permanent barracks are to be received in Croacow, Resezow, Tampol, Przemyst and other places to take the place of temporary barracks are to be received in Croacow, Resezow, Tampol, Przemyst and other places to take the place of temporary barracks were of lumber. The new barracks will be of stone, and will cast many millions of florin. New fortifications are also to be constructed for the defense of places now open to sudden attack by the artillery. Galicia is to be raised to a war footing. New light repeating rifles are to be served out to the troops and smokeless powder provided for the heavy ordnance. Altogether, when these cestily preparations are completed, Russia will find herself face to face with a well organized force in strength an equipage equal to hetroops. The Austrian frontier is constantly being augmented in numbers both of cavalry and infantry drafted early from Caucasus.

DEAR SIR—In your last issue Councillation of the Times.

DEAR SIR—In your last issue Councillor Colpitts has a reply to my letter in your issue of the 19th ult. He prefixes his remarks with an intimation to the readers that it is hardly worth while to answer me at all, and indulges in some remarks complimentary to me generally. But let that pass, that is not the question at present. Concillor Colpitts then goes on to say that "from the tenor of my letter it would be inferred that the Council had pass, that is not the question at present. ### THE PIC-NIC.

The Buffalo Lake Annual Pic Nic a Grand Success

The B. B. Match---Buffalo Lake vs. Moose Jaw

Results in a Victory for the

"Rangers."

Score-15 to 10.

A most enjoyable vic-nic was given A most enjoyable vietne was given on Dominion Day by the settlers in the neighborhood of Buffalo Lake. This is a fine sheet of water about some fifteen miles in length by about half a mile in width. While the prenicers were requested to take their lurch baskets with them, the success of the pic-nic was greatly promoted by Mesdames James McCartney, H. C. Gilmour, Jas. Moffat and others, they providing lunch for all who neglected to do so for themselves. The place where the pic-nic was held is a most desirable place for that purpose, in every respect. The weather was all that could be desired and in consethat could be desired and in consequence the attendance was very large. Every-one, their wives and families seemed to have been present, and we did not imagine that the district could turn out so much youth and beauty as we saw gathered together there. On our way to and from the pie-nie we saw some excellent crops. Notably those of Thos. Webb, James Moffat, Jas. Thompson and Jas McCartney. those of Thos. Webb, James Moffat, Jas. Thompson and Jas MeCartney. The chief event of the day was a base ball match between the Junior town club and the Buffalo Lake "Rangers," Mr. Jas. Fitzpatrick officiating as unpire. This resulted in favor of the latter by a score of 15 to 19. Bob McCartney's pitching assemed to dazzle. Cartney's pitching seemed to dazzle the eyes of the town boys, and the re-sult was that they mostly all went out at the bat. Wm. Simington, catcher for the Moose Jaw nine filled his posi-tion in a most becoming fashion, while Wm. Baxter held down bag No. 1 in good shape and captured everything that came in his way. After an exciting game, equalized by remarkably good play game equalized by remarkably good play on both sides supremacy rested with the Rangers. In a previous game with the Moose Jaw team, the Rangers were defeated, it is true, but they were bound it would be different this tree. settled down to play ball, displaying a great deal more coolness and judge-ment than usual, in fact they displayed so much of the latter that it was al-most impossible for them to do other-wise than blossom forth into victory. ### SIR JOHN'S REQUESTS.

His Property Divided Between His Wife, His Daughter and Hugh John.

and High John.

Offina, June 25.—The following are substantially the contents of Sir John Macdonald's will. He appoints his son Hugh John Macdonald, the Hon. Edgar Dewdney, Fred White, and Joseph Pope his executors, and he appoints them together with Lady Macdonald, to be guardians of his daughter. He leaves his Ottawa residence, Earneliffe, to Lady Maed mald for life, and in the event of her desiring to sell it, it is to be sold and the proceeds thereof invested, she to receive the income thereof during her life. In the event of her death before that of her daughter the latter is to receive the income, and after her death the family of his son is to be entitled to the money. He bequeaths his law library to his son, and all the contents of his house, furniture, general library, personal effects, books, etc., to Lady Macdonald, to whom he also leaves for her life the income of certain investments not included in the general personal estate. He directs that the policy of insurance for £2,000 is to be invested and the meome thereof paid to his son during his life and after his death to go to his son's children. He leaves to his son the money to which he became entitled from his sister, the late Miss Macdonald. As to the half of the balance of his personal estate he directs the income of it shall go to Lady Macdonald and his daughter during the life of the half of the of the balance of his personal estate he directs the income of it shall go to Lady Macdonald and his daughter during the life of both of them, and to the survivor of both of them during the life of the survivor, and as to the other half of the income is to go to the family of his son, and after the death of both Lady Macdonald and his daughter the whole of his personal estate is to go to the family of his son. He gives certain directions as to the modes in which investments may be made, and concludes his will with the following clause: "I desire that I be buried in the Kingston Cemetery, near the grave of my mother, as I promised her that I should be there buried."

The will is dated 4th September, 1890. The value of the estate bequeathed, apart from Earnchiffe, is between eighty and ninety thousand dollars.—Free Press.

A St. Louis paper says that glass may be cut with scissors as easily as if it were a piece of paper. The secret consists in plunging the pane of glass into a tub of water, submerging also the hands and the scissors. The scissors will cut in straight lines without a flaw. This result is achieved in consequence of the absence of vibration. If the least portion of the scissors is left out of the water the vibration will prevent the glass cutting.
